Pioneer Square Mesh Field and Hay Fence.

The strong elements of these fences and upon which durability and strength depends are High Carbon Corrugated Live Wires heavily galvanized, all of which are tied together by tough open hearth Steel Stay Wires, all of which are double galvanized. The top and bottom strand wires are number 9, the intermediate strand wires are No. 11; the double galvanized stay wires are No. 13. The corrugations in the live wires amply provide for strains, incident to contraction and repulsion, the result of heat or cold, at some time these corrugations also give life to the fence, protecting it from ordinary usage, when any great or sudden force is brought to bear on the fence. The corrugations permits of a gradual yielding which prevents the live wires from being put to sudden strain, and consequently eliminates the danger of breakage from stock running against them.
